The Institute of Emotion-Focused Therapy Ireland hosts an intensive four-day level 2 training workshop in Emotion-Focused Therapy. The training is open to participants who have already completed a Level 1 training and wish to advance their practice of EFT. It is also open to participants with more experience who are interested in a refresher and the opportunity to explore issues that have arisen in their clinical practice.

Training Outline: This workshop provides participants with more in-depth skill training beyond the introductory Level One workshop and enables discussion of challenges that have emerged in using EFT in participants's own clinical practice. Participants receive in depth skill training through a combination of brief lectures, video demonstrations, live modelling, case discussions and extensive supervised role-playing practice (in which participants learn by working as both client and therapist in small groups). Topics covered over the course of the four days include advanced emotion assessment; productive and unproductive arousal; advanced work with experiential tasks such as two chair and empty dialogues; work with worry and interruptive processes; imaginal restructuring; application of EFT to specific populations & problems; and case formulation for specific disorders.

Ladislav Timulak, Ph.D., is an Associate Professor at Trinity College Dublin, where he is also Course Director of the Doctorate in Counselling Psychology. He trained in emotion-focused therapy with the developers of EFT, Professors Leslie Greenberg and Robert Elliott. His main research interest is in the area of psychotherapy research, in particular emotion focused therapy; and he is lead investigator in an ongoing study investigating the application of EFT to the treatment of Generalised Anxiety Disorder. He is the author of a number of books, including 'Transforming Emotional Pain in Psychotherapy: An Emotion-Focused Approach'.

The workshop is a small group training experience and enrollment is strictly limited.

This workshop is open to qualified counselling/clinical psychologists and accredited psychotherapists/counsellors who have completed at least a Level 1 training in Emotion-Focused Therapy
